

CHART A COURSE

The confidence to call the tune

Course ABC Sing.

For teachers whose singing in the shower is progressing well, it could be time to take your tunes into the classroom.

ABC Sing! is a music course, presented annually, based on the new ABC Sing book. "Our presenter guides teachers through activities based on a selection of songs from the book. These activities are easy to understand and implement in classrooms," says the course co-ordinator with the music education network, Orff-Schulwerk Association of NSW, Michelle Rollins.

This accredited professional development course is aimed at all teachers, but is particularly relevant to those in primary schools. And there's good news for those without a musical background.

"Although it's a music course, you don't have to be a specialist music teacher to benefit - the aim is to assist all classroom teachers to feel confident enough to include music in their teaching programs," Rollins says.

There's one other reason some teachers come back every year. "It's actually fun!" she says.
